Your mental health is just as important as your physical health. With rates of reported mental conditions on the rise,<sup>1</sup> it's more important than ever to prioritize mental and emotional well-being and get help when you need it. If you or a loved one needs help, start with these tips below:

- Speak up if you're struggling. Be honest with the people in your life about how you're feeling. They can't help unless they know you need their support.
- Talk to your doctor. They can connect you with support and help you access care for depression, anxiety, addiction and recovery, and more — without a referral.
- Seek treatment. Help is available and effective. If you don't know where to start, talk to your care team and let them connect you to the support you need.
