

KAISER PERMANENTE ON-THE-JOB® | OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH SERVICES

Supporting the needs of employers and workers

Accidents – and injuries – happen. Some are minor, some more severe. For those injuries that prevent workers from returning to the job right away, there's Kaiser Permanente Occupational Health. For nearly 30 years, we've been helping injured employees get back to their livelihood as soon as possible.

Specialists in injury care

We specialize in injury care provided by board-certified, actively practicing occupational medicine doctors* and specially trained providers – all part of the Washington State Department of Labor & Industries' Medical Provider Network. What's more, our case managers excel at keeping you informed of your employees' progress.

Our occupational medicine teams operate at 6 locations across the Puget Sound region and 1 in Spokane. Your workers can get all their care – work-related injury care, X-ray, lab, and pharmacy – under one roof.

Exams and other services

In addition to injury care, Occupational Health offers medical testing, commercial driver medical exams, employment exams – including after offer and return to work – and drug and alcohol testing. In short, whatever you need to make sure your employees are cleared to work.

A Center of Occupational Health and Education

As 1 of only 7 Centers of Occupational Health and Education (COHE) in the state, Kaiser Permanente (formerly Group Health) employs occupational health best practices and works effectively to improve injured workers' health and reduce disability. The result? Your workers will be able to get back to work in a safe, timely manner.

Not a member? Not a problem.

Your injured workers don't have to be covered by a Kaiser Permanente health plan to receive occupational health services at our 7 locations.
